"For action," prints the Philadelphia Inquirer "read Homer and Scott; for imagination, read Shakespeare and Job." But whom did Homer and Shakespeare read? And, alas, whom shall we read for originality?

Among the new novels announced is one "founded" on the life of Joseph Chamberlain. Another uses for "background" the recent doings in Breathitt county, Ky. Is the novel, as well as the magazine, to become a glorified newspaper?

If the gulf stream has shifted half a hundred miles or more, it is high time that the United States should rectify the trouble, and take measures to bring it back to the old channel. Labrador style of climate is not wanted.

Things Quaint and Curious Gathered Here and There

IS A WONDERFUL WHITTILER.

George A. Jones of Philadelphia Challenges the World.

George A. Jones of Philadelphia challenged the world to produce his equal as a whittler. The challenge brought a reply from B. F. Clay of Fernwood, who offered in evidence a wonderful display of his work.

Mr. Clay is 75 years old and a machinist by trade. In the illustrations given here are shown two varieties of chains, each of which he cut out of one piece of wood.

The five-sided link, or anchor chain, shown is of cedar. The idea was taken by Mr. Clay from a watch chain. Another section of this chain is the eight-link production referred to above, with a fancy bit forming a pentagon, the hollowed-out inside containing a double loop knot made of the stick's core, extending laterally when pulled. The pentagon, with five sides open, revolves on the core.

A chain made of links, each containing six links, is of the twist variety and lays flat. Mr. Clay has made many articles besides chains, such as tweezers, pinchers and furniture sets, but he has made a specialty of chains and believes that in that line he stands foremost.

INFLUENCE OF THE OCEAN.

The Power of the Mystic Sea Affects All Men.

Throughout all ages, in every clime, to people of every race, the forces of old ocean have ever appealed with irresistible power. Its vast area, its solemn grandeur in repose, its sublime spectacle when lashed to fury by the wind, its mystic depths where lie the fleshless human victims of its mighty wrath, and whence issue strange forms and fearsome noises—all are potent in their awe-inspiring effect on the beholder. Under its magic spell ordinary mortals stand in respectful silence, for lack of power to express their thoughts, which may be none the less profound because of the inability to give them verbal utterance; but poets with their mood of skill have ever tried with well-tempered phrase to tell us of Neptune's moods—his smiles and frowns and vagaries. Even among the common fisher-folk this great influence is noticeable in its effect upon their superstitions.

The accompanying picture is of a scene in the coast rocks at Fairhead, near Ballycastle, in Ireland. Fähr Leith, or The Grey Man's Path, is a fissure in the precipice, and viewed either from land or sea is never to be forgotten. It seems as though some supernatural power had caused the fearful chasm that divides the rocky promontory so that it might visit or summon the spirits of the deep without treading a road made by mortal hands. In its narrow part the passage is spanned by part of a large basalt pillar, suggesting a gigantic bridge. Farther on the passage widens; its dark sides tower to a greater height, giving a more wild and somber magnificence to the scene, and at length the face of the mighty promontory is reached, where the northern ocean rolls its threatening billows.

The influence of the mighty forces of old ocean is noticeable in all the beliefs regarding the spirit world indulged in by these fisher-folk who think that the "Grey Man" of the North sea stalks forth silently and alone up his appropriate path to witness some mighty convulsions of nature.

NEW SEAL IS APPROVED.

Appropriate Device For Department of Commerce and Labor.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou have approved the design for a seal of office for the new department of commerce and labor submitted by Tiffany & Co., and orders have been given to cut the die.

This is said to be the first device adopted for any of the government departments which is absolutely correct in all heraldic details, and at the same time having full significance in the varied duties and purposes of the department. The ship is adopted as the symbol of commerce, and the anvil and hammer typify industry and labor. The crest is the eagle of the American arms and denotes the national scope of the department.

"The Cruel Plant."

Our picture illustrates a curious Canadian climber upon which there has been bestowed the name of the "Cruel Plant," because of the way in which it treats certain butterflies. It is an autumnal bloomer, and the insects, attracted by its perfume, hover round and push their proboscis into its corolla, on honey-sipping intent. But the act is fatal, for the poor flies get gripped tightly by a pair of remarkable vegetable pincers in the heart of the flower, and held until death terminates the struggle.

Mouse Cause of Train Wreck.

A mouse recently wrecked a train. It was walking along a rail, looking at the moon one evening, when an owl saw it. The mouse immediately gave chase, and the mouse retreated gracefully into the jaws of a switch. The owl got wedged in the jaws of the switch and prevented its being closed, so that a freight train was derailed. Unfortunately, the papers failed to say whether or not the mouse escaped.

TATTOO MARKS SERVE TO IDENTIFY ANARCHISTS.

England at the present time is almost the only country of Europe where anarchists are allowed to conspire at ease. France, on the other hand, keeps a numerous secret police corps, the only duty of which is to closely watch the companions, particularly those who are foreigners.

How many anarchists have left France for the United States, where they are well received, it would be

PONDEROUS WEAPONS OF OLD.

Such Were Those Used by Fierce 13th Century Fighters.

In the old feudal days in England strength and skill counted for everything in the constant struggles for supremacy. In those strenuous times the human being who was physically weak, or who counted on a weapon in any sense inferior to others for his defense, was indeed most unfortunate. The student of contemporaneous history can scarcely repress a shudder of horror, especially if he be at all imaginative, when reading an account of a battle fought in that bloody age. Those fierce hand-to-hand conflicts—when skulls were split with massive battle ax, or the no less deadly claymore, and men frantically clutched at each other's throats, each seeking to first deliver the final dagger thrust—were among the most terrible on record; and when we reflect that in nearly every instance they were incited by causes of a most trivial nature, we should be thankful that ours is a more enlightened age.

The weapon shown in our picture—known as the Seaton sword—is a remarkably fine and unusually large specimen of the old Scottish two-handed variety—which is a valued heirloom of the Seaton family of Carleton. The blade is forty-nine inches in length; the total length of the weapon is five feet nine inches, and it weighs seven and one-half pounds.

Calmly reasoning from this characteristic heirloom we detect in it just such hardy, skillful, overbearing power as history informs us was the character of the medieval baron before the rise of the burgher class readjusted the social balance.

Pine Tree Bread.

Pine tree bread is being eaten by Finlanders, and is almost the only food that can be obtained by them just now. It is made of the bark of pine trees, and looks like brown sandstone. It is almost as hard as stone, and no one would suspect that it could be eaten. Its only redeeming feature is that it lasts for years in as "palatable" a condition as when fresh.

Cost of Army and Navy.

The pay of the army is $37,000,000 a year; the quartermaster's department uses $32,000,000; guns cost $11,000,000; the expenditures on rivers, harbors and forts, $16,000,000; the pay of the navy is $15,000,000; the cost of new vessels $20,000,000.

hard to tell. At all events, it is not an absolute impossibility to ascertain who they are and to determine if they are desirable in the United States while they are not in France. When they change their names, as they often do in landing in New York or elsewhere, their identity can not be easily disclosed from a description (it does not matter how accurate) inserted in majority being Italians. They would be recognized at a glance. They are peculiar in two respects; first, they are very far from being artistic; furthermore, most of them are emblematic of work. If this respect it may be stated that experts in criminology have noticed that as a rule anarchists are good workers, thrifty and seldom addicted to dissipation.
